Overview

Product Management and Consultant for Data Centre solution seem to be the roles that employers are most likely to increase headcounts, the candidates are not expected to be only with in-depth knowledge in general network and system engineering, but also being expected to be with software and programming knowledge in order to deliver Software Defined Network and Network Functions Virtualization solutions.

For Building Service Engineering side, along with more finished Data Centers in past few years, the E&M employment market is lack of facilities management talents instead of projects engineering.

The average general salary adjustment in 2018 of data centre employees is around 4%. For promoted or job changed employees, their salary increment can reach 17 - 22%.
